

DHFL Pramerica Low Duration Fund

(An Open Ended Income Scheme)

Why invest in DHFL Pramerica Low Duration Fund?

DHFL Pramerica Low Duration Fund is a fund that seeks to generate regular income by investing primarily in investment grade and low duration debt and money market instruments.

Investment Strategy

- The Fund focuses on enhancing the portfolio by identifying optimum credit opportunities in the market.
- The Scheme may assume moderately higher credit risk as compared to a Scheme investing predominantly in AAA bonds/sovereign securities.

Portfolio Characteristics*

- The fund focuses on adding value through credit identification, while strict portfolio discipline and actively managed mark to market holdings help in moderating the return volatility.
- The fund also actively seeks to identify mispriced securities in the shorter tenor space, primarily in CPs and Corporate Bonds.
- Portfolio invested in debt and money market securities across the credit spectrum.

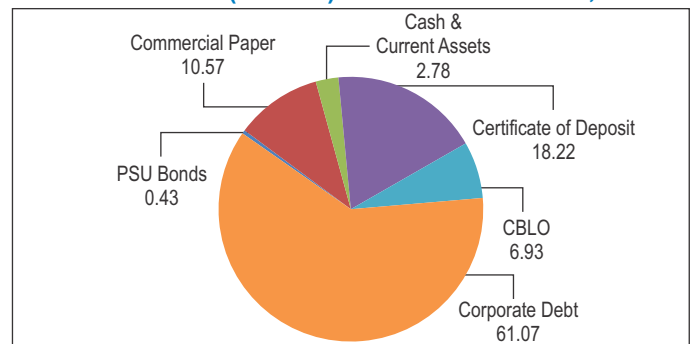

Portfolio Positioning*

- Combination of a higher rated CD & CP mix and attractive credit spreads in the non AAA/A1+ rated securities helps the fund capture a relatively higher yield vis-à-vis the flagship ultra short term fund.
- The fund would maintain a weighted average portfolio maturity in the range of 6 to 12 months.

Who should invest?

DHFL Pramerica Low Duration Fund is ideal for investors seeking to invest in a portfolio of debt and money market instruments for an investment horizon of 6 to 12 months.

Liquidity and Rates

- Liquidity witnessed some pressure in the second fortnight of the month despite the system remaining positive.
- RBI has been conducting OMO sales in the last few months in an attempt to drain out the surplus liquidity. The system liquidity had steadily built up as a result of deposit growth in the banking system post demonetization and Fx inflows arising from FPI inflows.
- However a steady decline in the net system liquidity surplus led the RBI to cancel the 10th OMO in November. From a surplus of close to INR 4trn pre mid September, November end surplus was down almost by half to around INR 2 trillion.
- It appears that further OMOs are unlikely at this juncture unless there is a substantial liquidity build up again from current levels.
- RBI has thus far drained out excess liquidity through a combination of dated OMO (Open Market Operations) sales of Govt bonds (INR 900 bio), Cash management bills (INR 1.3 trillion) and Market Stabilisation Scheme (MSS) bonds (INR 1 trillion).

Fund Manager's View

- GDP for the second quarter of the fiscal ending September came in at 6.3%. Post the very weak first quarter print at 5.7%, there was some revival in Q2 as expected. The number of 6.3% partly understates the recovery that is underway although nascent in the private sector.
- Even as the GDP print has moved only from 5.7% to 6.3% in the last two quarters, core GVA has moved from 5.5% to 6.8% in the same period. The print reflects that the Private sector (led by manufacturing) is finally shaking off the after effects of demonetization and GST.
- Industry grew at 5.8% in Q2 as against 1.6% in Q1. Interestingly, industry is back to the same levels of growth as at the Sep 16 quarter in the pre-demonetization phase.
- The pull back in growth in Q2 was largely led by manufacturing even as services and agriculture remain subdued. Agriculture had a weak quarter growing at 1.7% as against 2.3% in the previous quarter. Services grew at 7.1%.
- On the negative side, Govt spending slowed down after a very strong Q1. Govt spending is expected to slow down further in Q3 and Q4 as spending is pruned to meet the fiscal deficit targets. This could pose a drag to growth in the second half of the fiscal even as the Private sector is expected to pick up momentum.
- In the last few months, concerns regarding any likely slippage on the fiscal front have been keeping the bond markets under pressure. Benchmark yields as a result have moved higher from close to 6.5% at the end of July to over 7% now.
- While we do not expect a rate easing in the near term, the 100 bps spread in our view is factoring in most of the negatives and prevailing concerns. Also, even at a higher CPI average of 4.5% for fiscal FY 19, the repo rate (6%) offers a real rate differential of close to 150 bps. As such we continue to expect a status quo on rates in the medium term.
- In the absence of any slippage in borrowings in the current fiscal from the budgetary numbers, yields are likely to ease somewhat from current levels. We however believe that a sustained rally in yields would be difficult given the reversal in inflation trends and some fresh pressures in oil prices seen in recent months.
- While we retain a structural positioning which is neutral in nature, we see some tactical opportunities in the near term. We reiterate that the risk-reward for allocation to the longer end remains modest and as such would prefer positioning at the short to mid end of the curve.
